

Horror film 'Sacramento' scares up cast

AJ Bowen, Joe Swanberg join Ti West indie

By DAVE MCNARY

Joe Swanberg, AJ Bowen, Kentucker Audley, Amy Seimetz and Gene Jones have been cast in Ti West's horror thriller, "The Sacramento," financed and produced by Worldview Entertainment. West, whose credits include "V/H/S" and "The Innkeepers," is in his third week of shooting in Savannah, Ga.

IM Global is handling international sales and will continue selling to foreign buyers this week at the American Film Market. CAA is repping domestic rights.

"The Sacramento" is produced and will be presented by Eli Roth. Worldview's Christopher Woodrow and Molly Connors will also produce alongside Jacob Jaffke and Peter Phok.

Worldview's Maria Cestone, Sarah Johnson Redlich and Hoyt David Morgan are exec producing alongside Eric Newman, Ti West and IM Global topper Stuart Ford.

Worldview announced it had come on board "The Sacramento" during the Toronto Intl. Film Festival. It is also producing and financing Roth's "The Green Inferno," set to begin shooting in Peru and Chile on Nov. 5.

Plot details on "The Sacramento" are being kept under wraps. Worldview is currently in pre-production on David Gordon Green's "Joe," starring Nicolas Cage, and recently wrapped Guillaume Canet's crime thriller "Blood Ties."

Contact Dave McNary at dave.mcnary@variety.com