The 2016 Cannes Film Festival gets underway today with a swarm of jet lagged but hungry buyers, and plenty of product for them to evaluate, in every genre. What follows is a list of the titles that are on the minds of buyers and sellers. There are a couple of finished films playing in the festival, but most of what will bring the big sales here are titles that either come to show a few minutes of footage, or pre-buys of packages that are assembled but haven't yet started production. Here are some of the most promising:

JACKPOT – Director: Will Gluck. Cast: Mila Kunis, Armie Hammer, Bryan Cranston. Four people win a jackpot of over a million dollars, but when it comes to dividing it up, things get bloody. IM Global selling.
